

The proportion of children and pensioners who live in low income households has been falling. By contrast, the proportion for working-age adults without dependent children has remained unchanged.

Source: Households Below Average Income, DWP; UK; updated Sep 2008