

For all consumer durables, the proportion of low-income households who are lacking them is much lower than a decade ago but still higher than for those on average incomes

Source: British Household Panel Survey, University of Essex, Institute for Social and Economic Research; UK; updated Jul 2010