

Two-thirds of all local education primary and nursery schools in inner London have a high proportion of their children eligible for free school meals

Proportion of local education authority primary and nursery schools in the region who are in the fifth of schools with the highest concentrations of children eligible for free school meals

Source: DfE Statistics; the data is for 2011; England; updated Aug 2011