

Men aged 25-64 from routine or manual backgrounds are twice as likely to die as those from managerial or professional backgrounds. There are also sizeable differences for women.

Source: Health Statistics Quarterly 36 and 42, ONS; the data is the average for the three years to 2003 (first published in 2009); England and Wales; updated Jun 2009