

The proportion of adults aged 45 to 64 who have a limiting longstanding illness in Wales, the North East and Northern Ireland is almost double that in the South East

