

The proportion of dwellings in England which are very energy inefficient has been declining for all types of tenure, but most sharply in the social rented sector

For each tenure, proportion of dwellings with a SAP rating of under 30

Source: English Housing Survey, DCLG; England; updated Jul 2011