

The proportions of pensioners and children living in low-income households are both lower than a decade ago. By contrast, the proportion for working-age adults without dependent children is similar to a decade ago.

Source: Households Below Average Income, DWP; updated Sep 2010