

The proportion of low income households who lack central heating has fallen sharply over the last decade and is now actually less than for households on average incomes in the mid-1990s

Source: The Family Resources Survey, ONS