The proportion of children in low-income households was falling up to 2004/05 but has risen since then. Children remain more likely than adults to live in low income households.

Source: Households Below Average Income, DWP; UK; updated Sep 2010

Proportion of children in households below 60% of median income after deducting housing costs

The rate for the overall population
Additional to the rate for the overall population