5-year-olds in the North of England have, on average, more missing, decayed or filled teeth than 5-year-olds in the South (excluding London) or the Midlands.

Source: British Association for the Study of Community Dentistry; the data is for 2007/08; England; updated Dec 2009