

Single-person households are much more likely to be in fuel poverty than other household types, both overall and among those in low income

Source: English Housing Survey, DCLG; the data is the average for the three years to 2009; England; updated Jul 2011