

The proportion of low income households with no bank or building society account has fallen sharply in recent years

